

Celebrating with a Jolly Heart

CHS students speak about the joys of what fall and winter holidays have to bring.

As we approach the year end ahead CHS students and families prepare to assemble their holiday spirit. The holiday season is the time of the year where students start to recognize and enjoy the changes around them. At the same time thinking about parts of the season that really gets to joy. Whether it's leaves decaying on the ground or the smell of food leaving their kitchen CHS knows all about these jolly days.

While kicking off the holiday season there are some students that stay humble and cozy on their own. "I drink lots of coffee and watch the Vampire Diaries," Diana Ramirez (19') proudly says. As well as others that really get out there and travel to make the most of it "I go to New York to visit family," Alex Dunnigan (19') mentions. Each ritual might be different, but they still keep their holiday vibe.

Smells are also a way to make sure everyone gets a jolly spirit. Tanima Mullah (19') says the scent of "woods and pumpkins" tickles her nose. Ending with Kenneth Reece, science teacher, saying, "Christmas trees, cider, cinnamon, turkey, bread, and pie" are the aromas that lights up his season and fill the hearts of others. The holidays are a time to really express your festive spirit. As well as celebrate your usual family traditions.
